

Application No.: 10/654,376

Docket No.: LLOYDW 3.0-011

REMARKS

The specification is being amended to correct a minor typographical error. Entry of the Amendment is respectfully requested.

The proposed amendment under Rule 312 is believed to be entirely appropriate as it is typographical in nature, does not raise any new issues, clearly does not include new subject matter and has been proposed payment of the issuance fee.

The sentence to be amended provides two examples of a CO-based composition. As a CO-based composition must contain CO, it is clear that Cl₂ and N₂ and O₂ individually will not qualify as examples of the subject CO-based composition. Rather the combination of CO, CO₂, N₂ and O₂ is provided as a first example of a CO-based composition. As for the second example, it is clear that the nomenclature of CO₁NH₃ is incorrect and that the subscript 1 should have been a comma. Thus, this error is typographical in nature.

The Examiner is invited to contact the undersigned if he has any further questions.

Although, Applicants believe that no fees are associated with this amendment, if the Examiner determines that there are any charges in connection with this requested amendment, the Examiner is authorized to charge Deposit Account No. 12-1095 therefor.

Dated: December 28, 2004

Respectfully submitted,
